

The keys to success for Understanding the Need for Rules

I am interested in and accepting of others' different ways of doing things.

I am willing to work to others' priorities as well as setting my own priorities.

I am able to negotiate changes to rules and expectations assertively.

I can contribute to simple democratic processes.

I can assert my own views without putting down or negating others.

I can understand and follow rules in different settings e.g. games, sport, competitions, etc.
